Hi everyone,

Hope you are all keeping well. Below is a quick description of this week's homework.

For Irish read the 'E-leathanach' for the week and discuss the different articles. The focus is on the reading and understanding of what they're reading so read an article a day.

In English, there is a mixture of oral language, reading and written work. All is from 'Exercise Your English'.

This week's Math concept is on Chance. Chance is all about the likelihood of something happening and the week's work is based on chance and probability.

I've added PE and History as the extra subjects for this week. The theme for both is The Olympic Games. The Olympic Games were due to be held this year in Japan but are now put back to 2021. For PE pick a sport that interests you and work on that sport for the week. For example the long jump, cycling, badminton, handball etc. There are a lot to choose from. If possible take a picture or video and send it to me via email.

For History, I would like you to research the very first Olympic games. Where and when did they take place? What events took place at those games? Was there any dangerous events? Were women allowed to take part in the games? Origins of the Olympic flag and what it represents? How you present your research is up to you, you could write an article, use a powerpoint presentation, poster format, its completely up to you. I hope you enjoy these activities.

Again pick and choose what you like from the home work. Remember you are not expected to complete all the work, do what suits you and your household. Enjoy the outdoors and continue to read for pleasure.
